

February 25, 2010

It's finally been settled. February is the sunniest winter month. In the last eNews, we asked:

On average, how many of the 28 days of February are sunny in Northeast Michigan?

Dave Krzeminski of Sterling Heights had the closest guess. To see what his guess was and the final results, visit Huron Pines eNews answer. I'd like to thank Jim Lehocky, the Meteorologist at TV 9&10, for helping track down the weather data to answer this question.

Below is the 2/25/10 update for Huron Pines.

Huron Pines DAMS program

Interested in learning more about dams and what the conservation community is doing? Huron Pines is taking a proactive approach to address key concerns regarding dam management. Our staff has been hard at work developing this program and identified three key focus areas for 2010- inventories, education and removal.

For more information, please visit Dam Assessment and Management Strategies \(DAMS\).

Visit us at the Midwest Fly Fishing Expo

Join Huron Pines and check out angling resources galore at the March 13-14 Midwest Fly Fishing Expo. We'll have our River Model in action to show you river dynamics first hand. Mention you saw this eNews and stop by our booth for a free gift. Patrick Ertel, Restoration Project Manager, will also present on bugs, water quality and stream restoration on Saturday at 4:30. The expo will take place at Macomb Community College Sports & Expo Center in Warren. Learn more at <http://www.midwestflyfishingexpo.com/>.

Huron Pines AmeriCorps – Service at the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary

Two Huron Pines AmeriCorps members have been very busy these last months at the Thunder Bay National Marine Sanctuary. Members Ashley Marquardt and Steve Gates are currently serving as Education and Outreach Specialists in Alpena. To date, the two have volunteered over a thousand hours, furthering Huron Pines and the Sanctuary's mission to protect our region's resources. To learn more about their service and the program, please visit Huron Pines AmeriCorps.
